

How To Paint Camouflage Patterns

➤ Pick a pattern/template

To get the true look of camouflage, design your pattern and choose the colors based on the surrounding areas where the camouflage piece will be located.

➤ Choose the colors

Choose the colors starting with the base color and then the highlights. Always use paints with an ultra-flat finish such as Krylon Camouflage with Fusion Technology to ensure there is no light reflections.

➤ Design or choose a stencil

There are several choices for choosing a stencil. You can scan a stencil, use a template, design one yourself or use local leaves and branches.

➤ Start Spray Painting

Begin with the color that covers the most area and then move into the other detailed areas. When the paint is dry, position one stencil at a time over the surface, secure it in place and spray paint the stencil area with the second lightest color. Leave the stencil in place until the paint dries. Repeat with each stencil leading up to the darkest color.
